Version :

Peter : Now, Anne, I'd like you to tell me something about what you read.

Anne : Well, first of all, I'd better say that I don't read all that much.

Peter : Could you tell me why, please ?

Anne : Well, I haven't much time because of my work, what with travelling and so on, then my folks aren't great readers, so I suppose that has influenced me as well.

Peter : If you have the time, what kind of book do you enjoy reading ?

Anne : I'm not keen on novels. That's because, when I was at school, I had to study Dickens and Jane Austen and people like that. The teachers said it was good for us to read the classics. But I think that put me off. If you gave me something like that to read today, I don't think I could.

Peter : What do you like then ?

Anne : Light reading. I'm quite partial to a love story or a crime thriller, like a Raymond Chandler or an Agatha Christie. Those are my favourites, I suppose.

Peter : What about newspapers ? Magazines ?

Anne : I don't buy a daily, if that's what you mean, but the other girls in the office do, so I usually have a quick look through theirs. As far as magazines are concerned, I take a couple a week, mainly for the serials and the bits on fashion and beauty.

Peter : Thank you, Anne. You've been most helpful.

Anne : I haven't given you a lot of information, have I ? Still, I hope it'll be of some use !
